

SAFETY DISCLAIMER

The trip out to the windmills and the ascend are a unique experience, but it is also a practical and security challenge. Therefore, it is essential that all guests read this disclaimer thoroughly and agree to the conditions and precautions. Persons under 18 may participate if accompanied by a parent who must stand as a signatory below.

This disclaimer is part of the COOP's emergency plan.

The ascend of the windmill requires that:

- You are not under the influence of alcohol, medicine or drugs;
- You do NOT suffer from claustrophobia or fear of heights;
- You do not suffer from circulatory disturbances, dizziness, epilepsy etc.;
- You are in good physical shape.

You must pay attention to the visual markings in different parts of the windmill and abide by the instructions of the guides and staff at all times. At the ladders in the turbines, there may be only one person at each section, a maximum of three people on each floor (there are 11 floors in total) and a maximum of 18 people up in the nacelle — if not more accepted by the guide.

To ensure a steady flow of the guests in the windmill, it is important that the fastest guests climb up and wait to observe the interior of the windmill on their way back down. Generally, you must give way to the guests coming down unless the guide instructs you otherwise.

Secure loose objects such as mobile phones, cameras etc. Carry them in a pocket or small bag with a zipper. It is recommended to take off all rings or to wear working gloves while climbing on the ladders. Gloves are usually provided by the guide.

When moving from the vessel to the turbine foundation, both hands have to be empty and the instructions of the guide and the boat's crew must be followed at all times.

Due to possible dirt in the boat and the windmill, it is recommended that you wear practical clothes and shoes with rigid non-slip soles. In addition, you should bring a rainproof jacket, a bottle of water and some fruit or chocolate.

In addition to these security measures, we hope that all guests will positively contribute to the event by being patient in the event of delay and by showing respect to the other guests, in order for everyone to enjoy the tour.

You certify by your signature that you agree with the above conditions, that the whole tour takes place at your own risk and that there cannot be any liability claim against RibAlex.dk (CPH Shipping ApS), Middelgrundens Wind Coop or SPOK ApS in relation to the destruction or theft of clothing or other personal items.
